More stories at WordBlanks.com

That night

1. Adjective _____
2. Adjective Ends In Est _____

That night

It was _____Adjective_____ and darkness had already started to settle in. A woman stirred in her sleep, mumbling incoherently. Suddenly, she awoke with a start and sat up in bed, her heart racing. She could feel something watching her. She looked around the room, but there was nothing there. The woman shook off the strange feeling and got out of bed, walking to the door to peek out of it: nothing was lurking outside or inside the room. She closed the door and went back to bed, but within minutes she was up again, this time trembling violently as she heard footsteps following her _____Adjective Ends in EST_____ the apartment complex hallway outside her bedroom . The footsteps grew louder and louder until they were right behind her, right before she saw a dark figure step out from the shadows and into view. The figure appeared human at first glance - but then it lunged forward with astonishing speed towards the terrified woman, who screamed shrilly before slamming into a wall nearby with a thud.

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.