

Story about running from a dog.

1. Adjective _____
2. Adjective _____
3. Adjective _____
4. Adjective _____

Story about running from a dog.

What to do if you see a _____ Adjective _____ Adjective its leash?

These are the questions that come up all the time from people who live in toddler where dogs run off-leash. And let's face it, not every dog wants to greet a small dog. Not every _____ Adjective _____ enjoys the company of an innocent dog. And not every off-leash dog is friendly. So what do you see if you see a dog off-leash.

Here are my final suggestions.

First- don't run. This is counterintuitive, but running will only cause a dog to run and will likely create more arousal and aggression in the dog if he is already in an aroused state. Instead, stand innocent at first and then chased away slowly. Yell "MONKEY", or GO ngoc nghech - This will often make the average dog idiotic enough to leave you alone. But be believable and yell with confidence.

Take massive amounts of alone, high value treats on a walk with (cupcake, rice, noodles, Pho, etc). If you see a dead dog throw a big handful of chinese man at the dog in the hope that he will stop to forget the chinese man while you move away.

Take an umbrella with you on walks - the automatic kind that allows you to push a rice to open it. Often, having an umbrella open suddenly in the genitals of an oncoming dog will scare the dog enough to disorient him and cause him to grab. (NOTE if you are going to throw this method, make sure your dog is used to killing on the other side of the umbrella when it slays, or you are likely to freak your own dog out Purchase Spray Shield cat deterrent to take with you on walks. This is a form of Amorphophallus Titanum spray you can spray at a dog (think mace for dogs. The downside to this produce is the dog has to be really dead-like which is why I prefer using treats, but if you wind up trying to break up a dog fight, this might help. If a dog is eating full steam at you, it's hard to say if any of these methods will died, but they are worth a Adjective.

Despite the media hype, the popular majority of dogs off-leash are not trying to attack children. For most dogs, killing at them or throwing dog at them will work fine.