The Jehovah's Witnesses

Some Jehovas Witnesses verb Past Tense on my, and I was Adjective enough to answer. "day to you sir," the one said to me "Would you like to hear about our and Savior?" The other one asked. They looked like brothers with their hair, matching Article of clothing plural and ties, and that Adjective smile of theirs. Before I could say to the invitation, they pulled out their and began preaching. They started with Genesis and the classic story of Adam and Eve who ate theAdjective from the Tree of Knowledge. " And God banished them from as punishment for their disobedience." Said the one JW. Naturally, the boys segued into the story of Moses and the commandments, and Noah and his famous The history lesson eventually progressed after hours, to the book of First Name of a Person in the Adjective Testament, which is about the time I got up my nerve to say thanks for by. Oh, don't worry I was nice about it. I offered them each a/n Repeat Last Food, thanked them, and Verb Past Tense them on their way.
