Blood and Vessels

It was just another day in the life of little red blood cell Randy. He was excited to go deliver some _____ Noun to the body's _____ Noun. He squeezed through the narrow _____ Noun and entered the _____ Noun bed.

"Phew, pretty crowded in here!" Randy said, as he bumped into the other _____ Noun.

Up ahead there was a roadblock - a _____ Noun named Leo was stuck in the vessel and blocking the flow! "

Hey Leo! You're causing an infarction over here! The tissues aren't getting any oxygen!" Randy called out.

Leo said "Whoops sorry! I have leukocytosis and got a little crazy. Let me just diapedese out of your way." He squeezed through the vessel wall, leaving the path clear.

"Whew, thanks Leo!" said Randy as he continued his oxygen delivery. All the cells were happy that catastrophe had been averted. The end!
