Time Management

Time management has become a 'buzz phrase' in recent years. We have, more and more, been feeling trapped by the 24-hour day, and trapped by the fact that we need to gethours of sleep each night. As each day winds down, you look back and ask, 'Did Ieverything I needed to?'
If you're like me, at the end of the day, when you're scrambling to write down a couple notes for the next day. These are things that you may not have completed, or additional thoughts that you want to dwell on the following day.
As aservices provider, I have a number of tasks that must be performed on a daily, weekly, or monthly basis. Daily tasks include addingto my sites, monitoring servers, andto ending in ing the Plural noun . Weekly, I monitor web site traffic and take appropriate actions. And finally , on a monthly basis, I verb my Plural noun and send out invoices. I would consider my task list moderate, compared to others who may have 10 tothings that need to be completed each and every day.
