President Obama's Debt Deal Announcement

"Good evening. There are still some very important votes to be taken by members of Congress, but I want to announce that the leaders of both _____ Plural noun in both chambers, have reached an agreement that will reduce the deficit and avoid default -- a default that would have had a devastating effect on our economy.

"The first part of this _____ Noun will cut about $1 trillion in spending over the next _____ Number years -- cuts that both parties had agreed to early on in this process.

The result would be the lowest level of annual domestic spending since _____ Name of a person was President -- but at a level that still allows us to make job-creating investments in things like education and research.

We also made sure that these cuts wouldn't happen so _____ Adverb that they'd be a drag on a fragile economy

Now, I've said from the beginning that the ultimate solution to our _____ Adjective problem must be balanced.

Despite what some _____ Animal plural have argued, I believe that we have to ask the wealthiest Americans and biggest corporations to pay their fair share by giving up tax breaks and special deductions.

Despite what some in my own party have argued, I believe that we need to make some _____ Adjective _____ Plural noun to programs like Medicare to ensure that they're still around for future generations.

That's why the second part of this _____ Noun is so important.

It establishes a bipartisan _____ Noun of Congress to report back by November with a proposal to further reduce the deficit, which will then be put before the entire Congress for an up or down vote.

In this stage, everything will be on the _____ Noun.

To hold us all accountable for making these reforms, tough _____ Plural noun that both parties would find objectionable would automatically go into effect if we don't act.

And over the next _____ Number months, I'll continue to make a detailed case to these lawmakers about why I believe a balanced approach is necessary to finish the job.

Now, is this the _____ Noun I would have preferred?

No. I believe that we could have made the tough _____ Plural noun required -- on entitlement reform and tax reform -- right now, rather than through a _____ Adjective congressional committee process.

But this compromise does make a _____ Adjective down payment on the deficit reduction we need, and gives each party a strong incentive to get a balanced plan done before the end of the year.

Most importantly, it will allow us to avoid default and end the _____ Event that Washington imposed on the rest of America. It ensures also that we will not face this same kind of _____ Event again in six months, or eight months, or 12 months. And it will begin to lift the cloud of _____ Noun and the cloud of uncertainty that hangs over our economy.

Now, this process has been _____ Adjective; it's taken far too long.

I've been concerned about the impact that it has had on _____ Noun confidence and _____ Noun confidence and the economy as a whole over the last month.

Nevertheless, ultimately, the _____ Plural noun of both parties have found their way toward compromise. And I want to _____ Present tense verb them for that.

Most of all, I want to thank the American people. It's been your voices -- your _____ Plural noun _____ your emails, your _____ Plural noun _____ your phone calls -- that have compelled Washington to act in the final days. And the American people's voice is a very, very _____ Adjective _____ thing.

We're not done yet. I want to urge members of both _____ Plural noun _____ to do the right thing and support this deal with your votes over the next few days.

It will allow us to avoid default. It will allow us to _____ Verb _____ our bills. It will allow us to start reducing our deficit in a _____ Adjective _____ way. And it will allow us to turn to the very important business of doing everything we can to create jobs, boost _____ Plural noun _____ and grow this _____ Noun _____ faster than it's currently growing.

That's what the _____ Adjective _____ people sent us here to do, and that's what we should be devoting all of our time to accomplishing in the months ahead.

Thank you very much, everybody.";
