Boy with a dream

In the _____Adjective dark night, it was wet and raining. The _____Animal were hiding, the _____Animal were screeching, the children had their TVs on. Except for one little boy, he was laying in the hospital bed, reading his book when he had suddenly heard footsteps out from his room. He tucked his book under his bed and quickly turned off his lamp because he knew he wasnâ??t supposed to be reading now, he was suppose to be reading.

When the nurse walked in, a tear escaped the little boys eye because he knew that it would hurt, but hopefully one day it would make him feel better. The nurse saw that _____Adjective clear _____Noun run across that little boys precious face and sat beside him and waited for him to finally open his eyes.

â??Do not fear dear, this will one day make you better. A little pain is better than leaving everyone and everything you have,â?? The nurse said in a _____Adjective voice to try to calm the boy.

â??I know, but I donâ??t want to keep fighting like this, I want to be able to go outside and run and play with my friend, and not worry. I want to be a kid again,â?? The boy said with hope in his eyes, and sadness in his voice.

The nurse gave him a hug, secretly feeling bad for him. She stuck the needle in his arm, and held his _____Noun as he gently closed his eyes and fell into a deep, _____Adjective sleep.
