The Cheese Touch

I guess we must have been _____Verb ending in ing_____pretty loud, because the next thing you knew, we attracted a _____Noun_____.

The kids at my school are always itching to see a _____Noun_____. Me and Rowley tried to walk away, but those guys weren't going to let us go until they saw us throw some _____Plural noun_____.

I've never been in a real fight before, so I didn't know how I was supposed to stand or hold my fists or anything. And you could tell Rowley didn't know what he was doing either, because he just started _____Verb ending in ing_____ around like a _____Noun_____.

I was pretty sure I could take Rowley in a fight, but the thing that made me nervous was the fact that Rowley takes karate. I don't know what kind of hocus-pocus they teach in Rowley's karate classes, but the last thing I needed was for him to lay me out right there on the _____Noun_____.

Before me or Rowley made a move, there was a _____Adjective_____sound in the school paerking lot. a bunch of teenagers had _____Past tense verb_____their pickup truck, and they started _____Verb ending in ing_____out.

I was just _____Adjective_____that everyone's attention was on the teenagers instead of me and Rowley. But all the other _____Noun_____took off when the teenagers started heading our way. And then I realized that these teenagers looked awfully _____Adverb_____.

That's when it hit me. These were the same guys who _____Past tense verb_____me and Rowley around on _____Event_____night, and they finally caught up with us. But before we could make a run for it, we had our arms _____Past tense verb_____behind our _____Noun_____.

Those guys wanted to teach us a _____Noun_____for taunting them on _____Event_____night, and they started arguing over what they should do with us.

But to be honest with you, I was more concerned about something else. The _____Noun_____was only a few feet from where we were standing on the blacktop, and it was looking _____Adverb_____than ever.

The big teenager must have caught my eye, because the next thing I knew, he was looking at the _____Noun_____ too. And I guess that gave him the idea he was looking for.

got singled out first. The big kid grabbed Rowley and dragged him over to the _____Noun_____.

Now, I don't want to say exactly what happened next. Because if Rowley ever tries to run for President and someone finds out what these guys made him do, he won't have a chance.

So I'll put it to you this way: They made Rowley _____Present tense verb_____the _____Noun_____.

I knew they were going to make me do it, too. I started to panic, because I knew I wasn't going to be able to fight my way out of this situation.

So I did some fast _____Verb ending in ing_____instead. "I would, but I'm allergic to _____Noun_____; And believe it or not, it actually worked.

I guess the teenagers were satisfied they had made their point, because after they made Rowley finish off the rest of the _____Noun_____ they let us go. They got back in their _____Noun_____and took off down the road.

Me and Rowle _____Past tense verb_____home together. But neither one of us really said anything on the way back.

I thought about mentioning to Rowley that maybe he could have pulled out a couple of his karate moves back there, but something told me to hold off on that thought for right now.
