What Happened to Our Teacher?

It was a cool and _____ Adjective December morning, and the students _____ Adjective walked into the building. It was just _____ Number days before Christmas break and the week was going by too _____ Adjective. As the students _____ Past tense verb the _____ Noun they noticed the class was dark and Mrs. Waters-Jones was nowhere to be found; at least that's what they thought. _____ First name slowly opened the door and there she stood. Her usually _____ Adjective hair stood straight up on her head. Her glasses were crooked, and in her left hand, gasp, she held a red marking pen and in her right hand she held the district timed writings number 3. She was missing a shoe on her _____ Adjective foot. Alas, the students knew then that Mrs. Waters-Jones had gone far off the deep end. She wore _____ Adjective pants and a striped and _____ Adjective shirt. The students repeatedly called her name. Just then her daughter came from out if the closet in the _____ Location and told the students that it was no use, she couldn't _____ Verb them. _____ First name asked Kenya what was wrong, and Kenya said that she was grading the papers, and no one had planned their essay. The only thing that would bring her back was thoughtful planning. At that very moment, the students _____ Past tense verb to their desks, whipped paper out of their notebook and began to write _____ Adjective. Slowly, the _____ Location opened up and Mrs. Waters-Jones began to _____ Verb her eyes. As the students continued to write, the evil _____ Adjective spell was broken. Mrs. Waters-Jones continued to teach and several of her students got fives and sixes, and everyone lived _____ Adverb ever after.
