Angry Child

Mikayla, age _____ has just been told she can't go to her _____ house. "You need to _____ your _____ first,"; says her mom, "You promised to do that, remember?";

Mikayla gets in her mother's _____ and _____ "You're the _____ mom in the world! I hate you!"; She turns and runs into her bedroom, slamming the door.

"That's it! You're _____ young lady,"; her mom shouts back. She's left feeling _____ _____ and _____ and unsure if she's done the _____ thing.

Don't _____ your child when he's _____ just like throwing a _____ onto a pile of _____.

If you're a parent, odds are you've been there. Why do we often engage in _____ Verb ending in ing matches with our kids-or _____ Verb up, not knowing what to do-when an angry outburst occurs?
