The Legend of Zelda Video Game

Long ago three goddesses descended and created the world of Hyrule. Din, the Adjective red goddess, with her powerful, flaming Plural noun cultivated the empty space, and created the red Noun. Nayru, the beautiful blue goddess, bestowed her divine Noun upon the land and created the skies to give a sense of justice and order to the world and to guide the people in the goddesses' absence. Farore, the gentle Adjective goddess, endowed Hyrule with her powers so that courageous living beings would follow this justice.

After their work was completed, the goddesses left a magical artifact called the Proper noun which could grant the wishes of the user. It consisted of three golden Plural noun (each Adverb called a 'Triforce' one of Wisdom, one of Power, and one of Courage), held in proximity by a magic Noun. However, because the Triforce was inanimate and did not judge between good and evil, the goddesses placed the Triforce in an alternate world called the Adjective Proper noun hoping that a worthy person would one day Verb it.
