I Met A Boy

Once I met a boy named           Boy's name          . First I thought he was really           Adjective          , with his           Color           hair,           Different color           eyes, and pierced           Body part          . But once you get to know him, you'll think he is really           Adjective           and           Adjective          . But when my friend           Girl's name ( not yours )           met him, she was all, ' I am so in love with him! OMG!! I have not met anyone so           Adjective           in my life! ' So they started dating and before ya knew it, they were talking about getting married! I was a part of the wedding.....which was not the nicest wedding ever. But now they are living together happily with their           Number           children.
