The Da Vinci Code

The story of Robert Langdon, Professor of Proper noun Symbolology at Harvard University, and his attempts to solve the murder of renowned curator Jacques Saunire of the Louvre Museum in City or state. Saunire's body is found in the Denon Wing of the Louvre naked and posed like Leonardo da Vinci's famous drawing, the vitruvian Noun with a cryptic message written beside his body and a Pentacle drawn on his Part of body.

The interpretation of hidden messages inside Leonardo's famous works, which relate to the concept of the Sacred feminine, including the Mona Lisa and The Last Proper noun figure prominently in the solution to the mystery.

The unraveling of the mystery requires the solution to a series of brain-teasers, including Board game and number puzzles. The solution itself is found to be intimately connected with the possible location of the Holy Grail and to a mysterious society called the Priory of Proper noun as well as to the Knights Templar.
