Becoming a Good Teacher

It used to be that being a good _____
Noun meant you simply had to be a/n _____
Adjective person. If you were willing to Verb your community, be attentive to both your spouse and _____
Plural noun and be a/n _____
Adjective employee, you certainly would have qualified as a good teacher.

But honestly, when classroom effectiveness is judged by the teachers own _____
Adjective characteristics, and not measured by _____
Noun achievement, how would we know if a teacher is really getting the job done?

Student performance is both _____
Adjective and critical to assessing current teaching methods.
