What really happened!!!

A couple weeks ago i was _____ Verb _____ into the _____ Location _____ _____ Noun _____ station where the _____ Plural noun _____ handcuffed me to a(n) _____ Noun _____ and _____ Past tense verb _____ to _____ Verb _____ me. When they _____ Past tense verb _____ about _____ Number _____ days before i lied and told them i was out of town, in _____ Location _____ for a friends _____ Event _____. They _____ Past tense verb _____ my friends and i had to tell them it was _____ First name _____ because i knew he'd go with. After a lot of bullshit i finally got out there just in time to _____ Verb _____ the _____ Sport _____ game that was on in which the _____ Noun _____ one 33 to 45. That night i met up with hunter at the bar where i had explained to him the alibi i needed him to back up. After a few drinks we parted ways. The next day I was cookin lunch when i heard three loud bangs at the front door, it was officer lefeber. (S)He told me i needed to come down to the station for further questioning. This time the investigator walked in with a pissed-off look on his face. He told me that Hunter told him we were in illinois at magic waters. Then he said if i didn't tell him what i really did he would press additional charges and informed me i would be spending a lot of time behind bars. So I had no choice but to tell him what really happened. I told him about how i had gotten all drunk drinkin captain and coke, smoked a couple blunts, then stole my grandparents four-wheelers . I told him we had taken them into the city and may have taken out a fence. After i finished he informed me that he was investigating a murder and i was free to leave, but not after he wrote me a fat ticket. After all of this the i learned a couple things never trust an incompetent friend to back you up in an alibi and always stick to your story .
