More stories at WordBlanks.com

Mr. & Mrs. Simpson

1. Noun _____
2. Noun _____
3. Noun _____
4. Noun _____
5. Noun _____
6. Noun _____
7. Noun _____
8. Noun _____
9. Noun _____
10. Noun _____
11. Noun _____
12. Noun _____
13. Noun _____
14. Noun _____
15. Noun _____
16. Noun _____
17. Noun _____
18. Noun _____
19. Noun _____
20. Noun _____
21. Noun _____
22. Noun _____
23. Noun _____

24. Noun _____

25. Noun _____

26. Noun _____

27. Noun _____

Mr. & Mrs. Simpson

In a spoof of Mr. &; Mrs. Smith, Homer and Marge appear to attend marriage counseling and recount a brief moment of tension between them. In the flashback, when arriving home, Homer _____Noun_____himself in the bathroom and communicates on a hidden flat screen television, where it is revealed Homer is an assassin _____Noun_____to eliminate news reporter, Kent _____Noun_____ by order of Homer's boss, Mr. _____Noun_____. Although the _____Noun_____is locked, Bart _____Noun_____got in and is seen sitting on a Mortar, which was the toilet. Before he leaves, he tells Marge he will be coming home late from "Midnight _____Noun_____Madness"; Marge also states that she is busy turning over _____Noun_____ making up an equally farfetched excuse. When Homer prepares to shoot _____Noun_____at his rooftop party from a faraway platform, a _____Noun_____with large blonde _____Noun_____(who Homer dubs "the Mystery Skank") stabs Brockman in the chest, killing him instead. After Homer attempts to repeatedly shoot the woman (ending up with several civilian deaths), he manages to shoot the wig off her _____Noun_____ revealing it is Marge, also an assassin. _____Noun_____home, the two _____Noun_____each other's eyes, and Marge makes an excuse for the blonde wig. Unfortunately at dinner, Homer (thinking that he is talking in his head) exclaims "I'll kill her [Marge] after _____Noun_____; which leads the two attempting to kill one another with various weapons such as grenades, rifles, and a minigun, all the while _____Noun_____why the _____Noun_____was an _____Noun_____ _____Noun_____up _____Noun_____most of their _____Noun_____ and killing _____Noun_____Simpson. After killing Chief _____Noun_____with a crossbow, the two realize they are more attracted with one another when they kill someone together. For this, they soon begin making love over Chief Wiggum's body and, back to where the episode started, they both realized that they did not need any marriage counseling, but to kill people together. In the end, it turns out that they were not talking to a marriage counselor, but to Principal Skinner regarding Bart's misbehavior on the school bus. This causes a rather confusing situation as to why they went to Skinner, thinking he was a marriage counselor in the first place. But, both Homer and Marge turn a blind eye to Bart's misbehavior and simultaneously _____Noun_____Skinner instead. Homer and Marge are _____Noun_____and _____Noun_____assassins who _____Noun_____to take each other out in " Mr. and Mrs. Simpson.

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.