'We can save her. Take her into trauma room 1.'

Owen _____Past tense verb_____alone in the _____Location_____that day. He was wrong. He couldn't save his patient, just like he couldn't save his relationship with Cristina. There was someone else though... Teddy. But no, she had to _____Verb_____with Mark Sloan, just like everyone else. He looked up. She was standing next to his table.

'Speak of the devil...' he _____Past tense verb_____.

'What?' Teddy _____Past tense verb_____.

'Nothing. Just been a rough day. You know?'

'Yeah. I do know. Hey listen, I _____Past tense verb_____about you and Cristina.'

Owen inwardly _____Past tense verb_____his _____Body part_____. If Teddy had heard, that meant everyone had heard. As he glanced around the cafeteria, he saw the other _____Plural occupation_____and _____Plural occupation_____staring, whispering. They knew, but all they could do was make rumours.

'Owen

?'

He jumped out of his _____Noun_____.

'Oh, what?'

'I was wondering if you'd like to come and get a drink at _____Location_____tonight?'

'Uh, yeah. Sure.'

'Great!'

Owen remembered the last time he and Teddy had gone to _____Same location_____. That was when she told him that Cristina said she would give up Owen for Teddy. But this time there was the lingering promise of something new...
