A Very City Neighbors Hamilton Nutcracker

Once upon a time, there was a CNH student named                     Famous person                    . He was getting really excited about his performance for the Winter Arts Festival. He had                     Past tense verb                     until his legs couldn't                     Verb                    . He had                     Past tense verb                     until his throat                     Verb                     dry. All this practicing had paid off because now his favorite teacher Mrs.                     Famous singer                     told him he was going to act on stage all by himself. The only thing he knew he needed was his lucky charm, a                     Animal                    Body part                    . But he couldn't find it! He looked in the school's                     Location                    . He looked in his                     Location                    . He looked in the bathroom. The                     Animal                    Body part                     was no where to be found! Finally the moment came for him to go on                     Noun                    . He took those long steps to the center. He faced the audience and began to dance like no one was watching. He                     Past tense verb                     like no one was listening. His                     Verb ending in ing                     brought everyone to tears. The audience started                     Verb ending in ing                     and                     Verb ending in ing                     like a bunch of                     Animal plural                    . As he left the stage, Mrs.                     Famous singer                     said she found his                     Animal                    Body part                    . Looks like I was able to do it on my own!
