

Homer

1. Adjective
2. Adjective
3. Adjective
4. Number
5. Number
6. Number
7. Number
8. Adjective
9. Noun

Homer

Tribute to Homer

Today we honor the great _____Adjective_____bard, Homer, to whom we owe praise for the _____Adjective_____hours of _____Adjective_____reading for students over the centuries. Homer's date and place of birth are all unknown.

Most classical scholars date his birth back to _____Number_____B.C. and his death to _____Number_____B.C. It is generally agreed upon that his place of birth was a Greek colony on the coast of Asia Minor. Some researchers say he was likely born in _____Number_____or _____Number_____.

Although it is disputed whether the legendary bard ever existed, those who believe in the blind poet say Homer wrote the two _____Adjective_____epics of Greek history: the Iliad and the Odyssey. Both epics are considered _____Noun_____in Western literature and history.